

John Granato, Vice President Operations Support Sandia Laboratory Federal Credit Union

John Granato has worked in the financial services industry for over 20 years. After serving in the military, he began working in 2002 as a part time teller at a regional bank in Albuquerque, New Mexico where he ultimately became a branch manager. In 2016 he transitioned to Sandia Laboratory Federal Credit Union as the branch manager of the Kirtland Air Force Base location where he was dedicated to serving the needs of the Laboratory employees who worked on campus. Recently, John was promoted from a regional manager position to Vice President of Operations Support. A self-described nerd, John is a Vice President who is committed to using data to inform decisions and strategy. He has spent the last three years creating and analyzing data that lead to product and service enhancements that improve the lives of Sandia Laboratory Federal Credit Union members.